On September 10, Plano Youth Leadership (PYL) held an orientation meeting for its 2006-2007 class members and their parents. The meeting was designed to give the students an opportunity to meet each other and learn about the adventures in store for them over the next nine months.

The PYL program, now in its 12th year, trains 10th grade students in leadership techniques and community awareness so they can become familiar with current issues, community resources, opportunities and other factors influencing the direction of Plano's future.

Thirty students are selected from an extensive group of applicants to participate in the program each year.

"Each year we have more and more applicants as word of the program's many benefits spreads through our local schools. Our students and their parents should be very proud of their accomplishment in being selected for this unique opportunity," said Dr. Susan Fletcher, PYL president.

The 2006-2007 class includes students from public and private schools in the area served by Plano ISD, including Jasper, Shepton, Clark, Vines and Williams high schools, as well as Spring Creek Academy, Ursuline Academy of Dallas and John Paul II High School.
